The José Martí Project for World Solidarity

This project is sponsored by the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) since its creation in 2003, and has been supported by the Organization of Ibero-American States for Science, Education and Culture (OEI) and other international institutions. It is coordinated by the Jose Martí Programme Office of Cuba (OPM), and during almost two decades of work this Project has shown having a worldwide scope through several initiatives. For instance, the UNESCO / José Martí International Prize, and a large international movement aimed at disseminating the legacy of the Cuban Apostle of Independence and National Hero and supporting UNESCO's priorities.

THIS EDITION

We call upon all people of good will: intellectuals, artists, politicians and activists, as well as educators, writers, journalists, fighters for social justice, political, trade-union and religious leaders, members of scientific, feminist, young, farmer and environmental non-governmental organizations, etc. driven by principles of justice and equity. We intend to make of this plural and multidisciplinary thinking forum a platform for raising awareness across the international public opinion of the ills afflicting the humankind and endangering the very existence of our species.
